

Somewhere in France.

April 9

1918

Dear Florence

How are you anyhow? I am sorry your letters you wrote me were lost but it could not be helped. I do not remember just what you wrote in the last letter but think I will be able to answer it. I have just finished writing mama a letter on this fancy French stationery and hope it will suit you.

All is well with me as I wrote in mama's letter and hope you to be the same. you said that you have wrote me about seven letters well that's true and I believe I get all the letter you write. no doubt your time is taken up knitting for the Red Cross. I have seen many carloads of Red Cross stuff come in and distributed and you don't know how glad some of the boys are to get it. It comes from different parts of the U.S. some are fancy boxes of hats, others comfort kits, sweaters and other stuff too numerous to name. There is so many fellows over here to distribute too that it certainly must keep the Red Cross workers busy. There is very few kids here, but all the girls about your size wear wooden shoes and go to school that way. How would you like to have a pair to go to school in and when you walk into the room it would sound like a lumber wagon ha! If the teacher said anything about them, just swing your leg and throw them on her desk, they fit loose. Florence I sent some handkerchiefs home one is for you so you want to meet the postman first. Tell Sam not to worry I am going to send him and Edith something soon. Well Florence I will say finish for now. as the French say Bon-ve. Help mama and wash the dishes clean.

Best wishes

Your Bros

George

Write soon